

South Thames Colleges Group

Equality, Diversity & Inclusion Annual Report 2023/24

DRAFT

Welcome to the South Thames Colleges Equality, Diversity & Inclusion Annual Report.

There is a profound and enduring commitment to Diversity and Inclusion at South Thames Colleges Group. In July 2024, Ofsted commented:

‘Learners and apprentices thrive in an inclusive, caring and welcoming environment at the college. Governors, leaders and staff create an environment in which all learners feel they have the opportunity to succeed, and in which diversity is acknowledged and celebrated.’

The events of the past few years have prompted us to look again at the progress we are making, especially in terms of tackling racism and promoting race equality. Beyond that, we also chose to focus on an evidence-based hunt for our largest equality gaps and identified a number of areas for attention, including:

- Achievement among our Black students compared to their White peers
- Achievement rates for our students with disabilities and learning difficulties compared to their peers
- Equal pay gaps for female and black colleagues
- Black representation among our general staff body and the senior leadership team

We are proud to attract students and staff from such a rich diversity of backgrounds but, in talking to our staff and students, we understand that we are not meeting all their expectations and the Group has much more to do. We have established an advisory group through which staff can express their beliefs and expectations about the diversity and inclusiveness of the Group; their passion for equality has been abundantly obvious throughout the years that this Group has been active. We adopted KPIs for all of these equalities gaps and appointed a link Governor to improve our accountability for progress on these critical measures.

And we have made significant progress on many of these counts. Our gender pay gap has halved, although we still have work to do to finish this task. However, achievement rate differences among our diverse student cohorts have closed as has the ethnicity pay gap, while the staff the profile of Black staff among our employees has risen above our target. The representation of Black colleagues among the senior leadership remains stuck at a low level and again we have a lot more to do to resolve this.

In December 2024, the Group’s Governing Body signed off a new strategic plan, expressing ambition and high expectations for the Group. Central to these aspirations is a renewed focus on inclusion and Governors have set a requirement that the Group will be:

‘Driven by culture, practice and ambitious targets to find and close equalities gaps while identifying new areas for development to serve disadvantaged students and diversify our workforce, measured by new equalities targets’.

This Annual Report provides information on what the South Thames Colleges Group has achieved in 2023/24 and our aspirations for 2024/25.

Under the Equality Act 2010, the Group has a public duty to publish specific information on an annual basis on the progress made regarding:

- Eliminating discrimination, harassment, and victimisation.
- Advancing equality of opportunity for those who share a protected characteristic.

- Fostering good relations between people who share a protected characteristic and those who do not.

This Report provides an analysis of the diversity profile of the Group's current workforce and student population, a review of the progress towards our strategic equality objectives, and an overview of how the Group continues to effectively integrate and embed equality and diversity into the planning, delivery, and monitoring of the curriculum. The Report portrays only a small proportion of the actions and experiences that take place across the Group, but we hope that the information provided demonstrates the outcomes achieved by the Group impacting across the many people who are part of it from a wide diversity of backgrounds, as well as our overall performance in respect of the Equality Duty.

The focus of our aims for the future is to have a measurable impact on the outcomes directly affecting the lives of our staff and students, continuing to reduce the gaps in pay and seniority for staff and learning outcomes for students. To strengthen this work, we will renew our metric targets for improvement over an extended period and report on them every term to our Safeguarding, Wellbeing and Equalities committee of the Governing Body. We expect to drive new and ambitious changes and to make a real difference to the experiences of the diverse people who work and study at South Thames Colleges Group.

About the Group

South Thames Colleges Group was formed in August 2017 and was a merger between Carshalton College, Kingston College, and South Thames College. To allow the three merged Colleges to continue to build on their successful reputations, they have all continued with their existing names. South Thames College's Merton Campus formally become Merton College, meaning the new group has four distinct member colleges.

The merger has brought together the strengths of all the Colleges, enhancing opportunities for current and future students, and safeguarding the provision of further education to local businesses and across South West London.

Carshalton College is recognised for its strong local presence and its thriving vocational curriculum, especially in construction, media, and engineering. Kingston will continue to deliver some of the best Further Education provision in the country across a very wide range of high-profile subjects, sending around 1000 students a year to university. South Thames College's modern Wandsworth Campus is recognised for providing an industry-standard learning environment, whilst Merton College is home to the highly regarded Hospitality and Catering Academy.

The Equality Duty

The Equality Act 2010 created a public sector equality duty, which was developed to harmonise the Equality Duties relating to race, disability, age, and gender, and to extend it across the other protected characteristics. These are sexual orientation, religion or belief, gender reassignment, pregnancy, maternity, and marital status. The Group must therefore have due regard to the need to:

- Eliminate unlawful discrimination, harassment, and victimisation.
- Advance equality of opportunity between people who share a protected characteristic.
- Foster good relations between people who share a protected characteristic and those who do not.

The Equality Duty requires the Group to ensure consideration of equality and good relations into all practices.

This Annual Report:

- Demonstrates the work we are carrying out to achieve these duties.
- Provides published information relating to employees who share protected characteristics.
- Demonstrates how the Group endeavours to be an inclusive environment.
- Show how we are meeting our core values and behaviours, which relate to respecting and valuing all individuals.

The information contained in this report uses feedback and contributions from across the STC Group and from internal reports.

The Pay Quartiles are based on a rank order of all the male and female full-pay relevant employees from the lowest hourly rate of pay to the highest hourly pay rate. The generated rank order is divided into four equal quarters to provide 4 pay bands or quartiles.
